

As my Baby Mama Memoir journey continued, I was getting stories from across the country. I was so excited and driven to make this project a success. Soon after, I found out that I was pregnant. My situation was chaotic. I wanted my baby, no doubt, but I also wanted to change who his father was. This book became like therapy to me. Listening to other women tell their stories made me feel more normal and less alone and stressed about what I was dealing with. When I began on this path, my purpose was entertainment; the further along I go on this road, my purpose is awareness, normalization, and growth.
