

For anyone who wants to own a wonderful record of the Royal life and contributions of a devoted fairytale Princess in real life, this book is a treasure to read. Laying the foundation for Princess Dianas interest in the welfare of people and her personal interests and hobbies, we go on a narrated and pictorial journey into the main events of her life as a principled, young, titled lady blossoming into the demanding role of a duty-filled and well traveled, conscientious Princess and the charisma that she gave to the world, including her energetic charitable and humanitarian contributions that laid great emphasis on health care as she broke into fields that needed support. Diana also attended to her own health very carefully, using the latest updates. Wearing the most elegant style appealed to the Princess who had a love for Art and the exposure to her fathers early gifts of pretty dresses that he bought for his dear youngest daughter and her siblings; so a general range of her fashions and hairstyles as she journeyed through her role as Princess are illustrated by the pictures, with jewelry and hats worn, and notably her fashion taste evolved over the years as she appeared always magnificently beautiful and was a fashion trend-setter. Diana had a great sense of humor, and proved to be a good friend, lending her ardent support. The biography includes how Princess Diana acted with grace and elegance, shining the light of her spirit to abolish the AIDS stigma at a time when the disease was in its early stages of appearance and people were apprehensive; when she became the advocate for heart and breast cancer treatment; the champion of numerous other charitable causes, and the demolition of landmines; and a Royal leader in fashion. She was an informed humanitarian and it was well worth the effort to gather together many quotes demonstrating the values for which she stood. They indeed offer wisdom, tranquility and humor. Some are tremendously amusing and will have you laughing! The book is a welcomed companion for people devoted to Princess Diana, Royal watchers, the spiritual, the hopeful, the depressed, humanitarians, women in need of inspiration, motivated young people, the fashion-conscious, artists, travelers, the aged, the ill, those who welcome joy, beauty, and responsibility, anyone else, and serves as a valuable resource facilitated by its comprehensive index.
